David Frantz joined Zashin & Rich in 2013. His practice encompasses all areas of employment and labor law. He has represented employers before the Ohio Civil Rights Commission, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the National Labor Relations Board, and state and federal courts. David has experience defending against charges of discrimination and retaliation, sexual harassment, overtime and minimum wage violations, unfair labor practices, discharge in violation of public policy, and whistleblower retaliation under the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002. He has represented public employers in numerous labor arbitrations involving contract interpretation and discipline and discharge issues. David also has experience drafting post-employment restrictive covenants, employee handbooks, and releases of claims.

Prior to joining Zashin & Rich, David externed for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the Cuyahoga County Court of Common Pleas. As a law student at Case Western Reserve University School of Law, he represented clients on behalf of the Milton A. Kramer Civil Litigation Clinic. Upon graduating from law school, David received an award for excelling in the study of labor and employment law.

In his free time, David enjoys listening to and playing blues and jazz and spending time on Lake Erie. David is a graduate of Walsh Jesuit High School and Loyola University Chicago.

“Quotation is a serviceable substitute for wit.”
